

Eric Kissel is currently working as a Program Specialist with the TSU of Working Group II at the IPCC. He will be supporting Working Group II as it gears up for the SREX Special Report and Assessment Report 5. Prior to the IPCC, he served as the Managing Director of Live Climate. A San Francisco based non-profit, Live Climate promotes carbon offset projects in developing countries that carry additional co-benefits for the communities that create them. In 2008, Eric earned an M.A. in International Development and Environmental Analysis from Monash University in Melbourne, Australia. His thesis focused on how to improve the delivery of solar home systems to consumers in developing countries. Eric also holds an M.A. in Philosophy from the University of Cincinnati.
